AFTERNOON FIRE.

A Bad Conflagration on Adams Avenue.

E. G. Luke, Assessor—Gatherings in All the Courts and Elsewhere.

Yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock an alarm of fire was sent to the central fire station by telephone from Kiesel & Co.'s warehouse, on Wall avenue. The department responded to that place, but on arriving there to their disgust the smoke of what seemed to be a huge fire was seen on the bench.

The blaze was located in a barn belonging to Mrs. Helen Taylor, on Adams avenue between Twenty-first and Twenty-second streets. When the department arrived the flames had enveloped the entire structure and had spread to a pile of lumber on the property of W. W. Fife adjoining. The lot is a small garden hose in all that prevented it. Igniting the hay in a barn on the premises. The fire was discovered just as Mrs. Taylor was about to leave her residence to go down town to do some shopping. There were no children around and the cause of the conflagration is a mystery. The barn was totally destroyed and was valued at $600, insurance $500. The lot to Mr. Fife for lumber burned is estimated at about $250, on which there was no insurance.

Mary M. Gon was granted a decree of divorce from her husband, David H. Gon, on default of the defendant. The case was filed on March 17 last by Broeder & Gunnell. In the complaint the plaintiff alleged that the defendant, in the month of June, 1889, at their home in Kelton, beat and struck and called her vile, abusive names; that afterwards at various times and places, beat, struck and choked plaintiff and knocked her down and stomped her with his feet. A few days before the birth of each of their children, the defendant threw her upon the floor and beat, struck and threatened to kill her. A Word to Ladies.
Ladies who desire a beautiful clear skin, free from pimples, boils, blotches and other eruptions, should commence at once to use Dr. Gann's Lotion. It is a skin medicine in sharing with the friends the benefits it has won for itself. Among Mr. Gann's friends is Mr. John Mason, who has suffered for years from eruptions so that he was almost helpless. He had tried American doctors with no benefit, and when Mr. Gann advised him to try Chinese medicine he followed his advice. The result was as surprising as it was satisfactory to him. For in but a little more than a month he was entirely cured and as sound and well as he ever was.
